WORTHY PARK

— · EST. 1670 · —

Worthy Park Estate stands out as Jamaica's only true cane-to-glass Single-Estate distillery, every drop of rum is made from molasses produced in the sugar factory, using sugarcane grown on the estate.

Steeped in history since the Estate was founded in 1670.

Worthy Park is completely Jamaican-owned, operated by the Clarke Family since 1918 and now managed by Gordon Clarke, 4th generation.

Dedicated to 100% Copper Pot-Still production—a traditional method that enhances the quality and flavor of its rums.

This commitment to authenticity and craftsmanship sets Worthy Park apart in the competitive spirits market.

SUGAR
CULTIVATION

Cultivation of sugar cane began in 1720 and has continued unabated to this day.

1741

RUM
PRODUCTION

First ever record of rum production was in 1741, pre-dating any Jamaican distilleries still in operation.

1918

CLARKE

Only four families have owned the estate. The Clarke family has owned it since 1918.

1960

RUM
CEASES

Production of rum ceased in the early 1960's under agreement with the spirits pool association of Jamaica due to overproduction of Jamaican rum.

2005

NEW
BUILT

In 2005, Worthy Park breathed new life into the estate by building a state-of-the art distillery to resume rum its tradition of rum production.

THE CLARKE FAMILY

HENRY CLARKE

Henry Clarke emigrated to Jamaica in 1846 (age 18) and became an Anglican Minister. Founding member of the Westmoreland Building Society (now the Jamaica National Building Society).

FREDERICK LISTER CLARKE

One of Henry's five sons, Frederick Lister Clarke (pictured) acquired Worthy Park for £44,000 (approx. £2.8million adjusted for inflation).

CLEMENT, OWEN & GEORGE CLARKE

Frederick continued to expand Worthy Park and operation of the estate was continued by his three sons – Clement, Owen, and George - after his death in 1932.

GORDON CLARKE

Successive generations have remained in control of WP and now you will find the 3rd and 4th generation of Clarkes still at the helm.

Gordon Clarke (4th generation) is the co-Managing Director of Worthy Park Estate, and was the driving force behind the construction of the new distillery in 2005. Born and raised in Jamaica, Gordon's post-graduate studies took him to Ontario, Canada, and Florida. He returned to Jamaica to live, get married, and eventually settle into the family business. He spent time working in Production and Administration, spending five years devoted to the sugar side of the family business and another three years learning the rum business at Wray & Nephew.

Gordon has devoted the last 30 years of his life to his work at the Estate and the last 20 years to building and managing the new Worthy Park Distillery, reviving the great rum tradition that began in 1740.

"Worthy Park has so much aligned to be a great rum company. We have the cane fields, the sugar factory, and the distillery, all at the same location. "Cane field to glass" as they say. We also have 355 years of well-documented history and heritage that cannot be reproduced or fabricated. Finally, we have the origin, being JAMAICA, world famous for many things, including rum. JAMAICA

HAS IDEAL CONDITIONS FOR GROWING SUGAR CANE

PRIME LOCATION & EXPANSIVE ESTATE

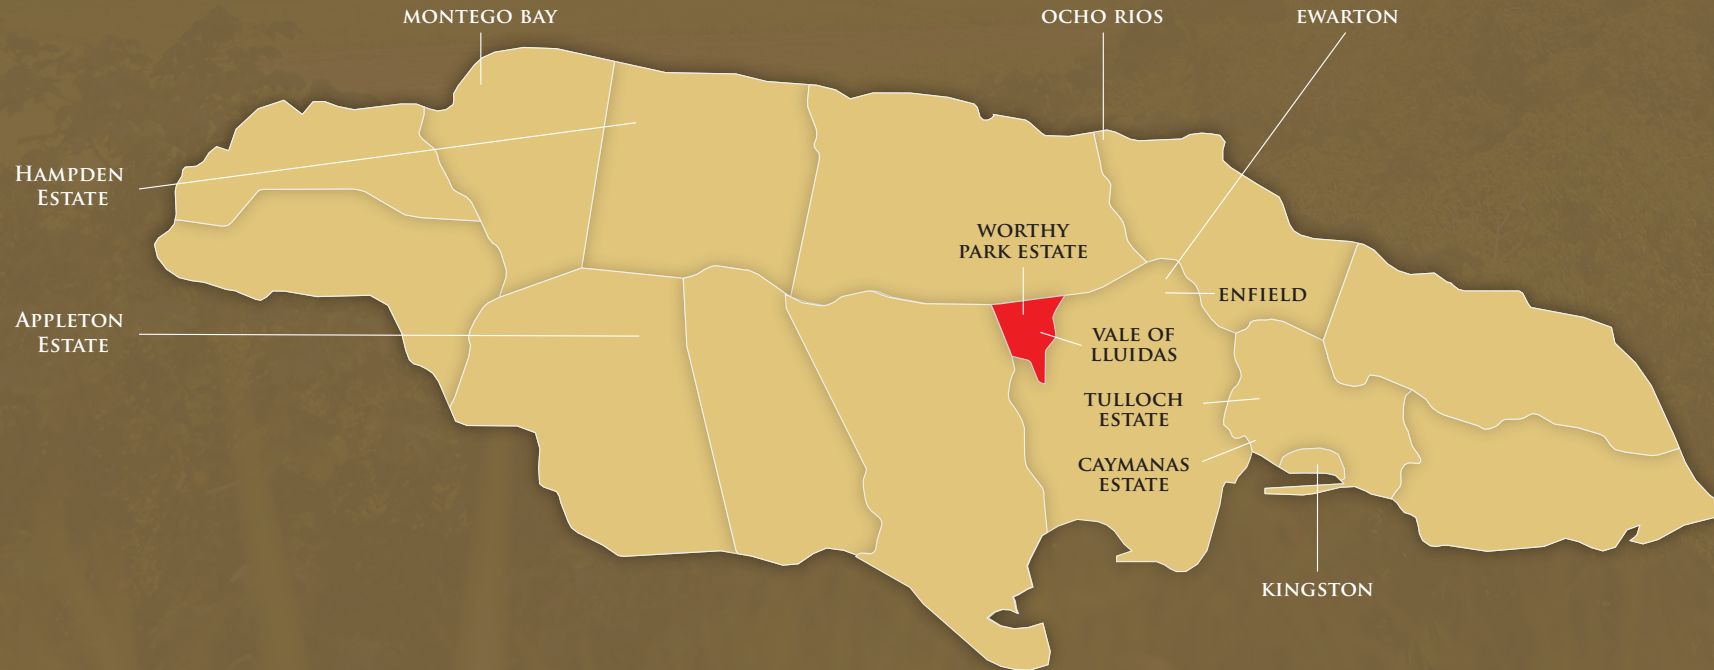

Worthy Park Estate is centrally located in Jamaica, in the Vale of Lluidas, St. Catherine. Spanning over 9,000 acres, the estate sits at an elevation of 1,200 feet above sea level, surrounded by the Cockpit Mountains.

IDEAL CLIMATE FOR SUGAR CANE

With an average temperature of 73°F (compared to Kingston's 78°F) and annual rainfall of 60 inches (more than double Kingston's 29 inches), Worthy Park benefits from cooler temperatures and higher moisture levels—perfect for sugarcane cultivation.

INTEGRATED SUGAR & RUM PRODUCTION

Worthy Park is a true cane-to-glass operation, with both its sugar factory and distillery located on the estate. All rum is made from molasses produced in-house, using sugarcane grown entirely on the estate—ensuring complete control over quality and authenticity from field to bottle.

SUGAR CANE FIELDS

OUR FOUNDATION FOR RUM PRODUCTION

CURRENT ACREAGE

Total land ownership is over 10,000 acres with over 40% dedicated to sugar cane cultivation

LAND USE

The land is 100% dedicated to cane cultivation, the Clarke family had used the land for beef cattle, citrus, poultry and other agricultural crops.

RECENT EXPANSION

1,256 acres previously used for citrus was acquired and converted to growing of sugar cane. 15 miles from Worthy Park.

CANE HARVEST

CROP SEASON

Lasts annually for six months starting in January. The remaining six months, the equipment is serviced.

CANE VARIETIES

Twenty varieties are grown throughout the fields but a majority of the acreage is composed of three high performers.

HARVESTING

Preferred method is to be hand cut and 80% of fields are cut this way, with remaining 20% cut by combine cane harvesters.

SUGAR FACTORY

STEP 1 CANE HARVESTED

Arrives from the field and is tested for quality.

STEP 2 CANE WASHED

Remove mud, debris, and leaves.

STEP 3 CANE MILLED

Five mills used to maximize juice extraction from the fibers.

STEP 4 MIXED JUICE TANK

Cane juice is separated from bagasse (which is then used for steam and electricity production).

SUGAR EXTRACTION

STEP 5 CLARIFIER

Removes mud and sends clear cane juice to the evaporator. Muddy juice slurry sent to rotary vacuum filter. Remaining mud “cake” is sent to cane fields as fertilizer.

STEP 6 EVAPORATOR

Five evaporators remove water and create a sugary syrup.

STEP 7 VACUUM PANS

Used to “grow” sugar crystals and results in production of massecuite, a mix of sugar and molasses, which is sent to centrifuge.

STEP 8 CENTRIFUGE

Separates the molasses, which is then sent to holding at the Worthy Park distillery, and the sugar crystals which is then bagged.

THE DISTILLERY

The original distillery ceased operations in 1960, in agreement with the Spirits Pool Association of Jamaica.

Gordon Clarke began construction of a new distillery 2004, rum production began mid-2005.

The distillery is on 4 acres of land in the Worthy Park Estate, which was previously a cane field.

The first buildings were the distillery and service building; followed by the aging and bottling warehouses.

Following traditional and authentic distillation practices, Worthy Park Rum is distilled in a 100% copper pot still built in Scotland in a state of the art facility.

MOLASSES

Molasses is a by-product of sugar production.

100% of the molasses used in our rum is from the Worthy Park Estate.

Our molasses is carried from our sugar plant to our rum distillery through a 1 km long underground pipe.

YEAST

THREE TYPES OF YEAST IN OUR RUM PRODUCTION:

1. A high ester yeast cultivated in wooden yeast propagators - made with american white oak for three months
2. A proprietary yeast strain isolated from the cane grown on property
3. An activated, dry yeast

FERMENTATION

Six fermentation tanks (80,000 L each)

Four are dedicated to light pot-still rum production (30 hour cycle)

Two are dedicated to heavy pot-still rum production (a 2 - 3 week cycle)

Light pot-still fermentation is temperature controlled

OUR BLENDS

WORTHY PARK MAKES TWO PRIMARY RUM STYLES,

DOUBLE RETORT

Traditional Jamaican three-vessel design:

3) high wine retort

BATCH SYSTEM

Operates on a batch system with a 5 - 6 hour cycle

POT-STILL STRENGTH

Rum comes off the still at 85% - 87%
and water is used to bring to proof

TROPICAL AGING

Aging spirits in the Caribbean is vastly different than aging in other regions of the world.

At 1,200 feet above sea level, the warmer days and cooler nights allow for accelerated “Tropical Aging”

Increased maturation with Tropical Aging vs. aging in North American or European climates.

Once-used American White Oak, Ex-Bourbon Casks.

Angel’s Share as high as 7% per year.

95% of barrels are sourced from Brown-Forman (Jack Daniels) in Tennessee.

WP has been aging stock since 2005, when the new distillery was built and currently holds just over 12,000 barrels, with a second aging house under construction.

All barrels are aged in open ventilation warehouse.

SUSTAINABILITY & EFFICIENCY

THE ESTATE & SUGAR FACTORY

ESTATE

CANE FIELDS:

Due to the sloped terrain, 80% of the fields are hand-cut, allowing for greater efficiency as cane cutters extract more of the stalk than mechanical harvesters, which handle only 20% of the crop.

Worthy Park maximizes yields by optimizing land use, spatial efficiency, and planting methods.

PRECISION CONTROL:

From molasses dilution to fermentation and distillation, the entire process is computer-controlled for maximum efficiency and consistency, making our operation more advanced than most column still rum producers on the island.

SUGAR FACTORY

Bagasse, the dry residue from crushed cane, fuels the furnaces, generating electricity for the factory, distillery, and surrounding areas.

Filter press mud and fly ash (from bagasse) are returned to the fields as soil enhancers, promoting sustainable farming practices.

#1 RATED

SUGAR FACTORY FOR EFFICIENCY EVERY YEAR SINCE 1968

SUSTAINABILITY & EFFICIENCY

THE DISTILLERY

BOILER & HEAT EXCHANGER

The boiler produces steam to power the pot still, while Worthy Park is the only distillery in Jamaica with a heat exchanger, which cools dunder (a distillation byproduct) and pre-heats wash from 24°C to 80°C, improving efficiency.

CIP SYSTEM

An automated cleaning system enhances tank sanitation, ensuring higher product quality and consistency.

SUSTAINABLE BOTTLING

100% of rum is bottled on-site. Rinse water is filtered and recirculated for three days before fresh water is added, reducing water usage. Daily testing ensures turbidity and pH levels meet safety standards.

DUNDER TREATMENT

Instead of harmful disposal, dunder is cooled and stored in a treatment pond, then used as fertigation (a nutrient-rich irrigation method) in the cane fields at the proper dilution level.
